Hi Angus,

sorry for the late reply. It is true that DataWarrior does not adjust the dpi-resolution, when moving from one window to another, which is also true for the just released v6.0.0. I didn't think it through, but I would expect this as cross-platform functionality to take a significant effort. Maybe in v7.0.0. At least you may override the default choice in v6.0.0 and choose a resolution that hopefully serves as a compromise between your two monitors.
