My MacOS 10.14.6 was updated last night, and now when I launch Datawarrior I get the following error messages shown in the attached screen shot. I click either or OK or cancel and then can use Datawarrior. Can I prevent these errors from happening?

Thanks!

It seems that your OS or some Firewall software prevents DataWarrior from making an HTTP request. DataWarrior tries to check after being launched, whether there is an update. This is a simple HTTP request to the openmolecules.org web server. Possibly, you can add DataWarrior to some kind of white list to allow that. Or you may tell DataWarrior not to do that request (in the help menu). In that case you might check manually once in a while, whether an update is available.
