Is there a way to to display the List Membership Filter of a Datawarrior File without having to create or modify an existing Row List? Can the List Membership Filter be displayed when the Datawarrior File is opened like the the other filters? Every time I open a saved Datawarrior File that has embedded Row Lists, I can't see or filter on a Row List until I actually create a new Row List or modify an existing one. Am I missing something simple?

Thanks

Hi Ed,

You can add a list filter with 'Edit->New Filter', then select 'Row List' and click OK.

When saving and re-opening a file with a row list filter, then the filter should be restored.

If this is not the case, then something fishy is going on and I would be glad to get a test file with that behaviour to get rid of the fishyness...

Thank you, Thomas for the reply. I thought it might have been something simple like that. That solved my problem
