When I open DataWarrior I get what seems like an ad for "Allipheron Hyperspace" on the left of the screen, and i cannot move from there to the usual DataWarrior windows... What is the problem?
Screenshot attached.
Thanks for your help.

there should be a 'Close' button underneath the ad. The ad should not be shown again unless you open it explicitly from the help->News menu. DataWarrior has the ability to show News, which will scarcely be used. Hyperspace is a functionality that can be used directly from DataWarrior. Thus, it felt important enough to use DataWarrior's News-mechanism to advertise this functionality.

Thomas,
Thanks for your fast response, but the issue is still there.
By changing the monitor settings I get to see more of the ad, including a banner in the bottom explaining what to do. However, I do not see a "Close" button.
Any other suggestions to address this issue will be appreciated.
Dario

Dario,

pressing TAB once and then ESC also closes the dialog. Of course, the TAB should not be necessary. This will be fixed in the next update.
