As a loyal user of DataWarrior, I have greatly appreciated the powerful features and user-friendly interface of your software.I have encountered another persistent issue across all versions of DataWarrior. If the file name or file path contains Chinese characters, directly double-clicking the .dar file results in an error. The only way to successfully open such files is by first opening DataWarrior and then using the "Open File" option from within the application. This is quite inconvenient and hampers the workflow, especially for users in China.

I kindly request that your team investigate these issues and consider implementing fixes. Resolving the issue with Chinese character file paths would greatly enhance usability for Chinese users.

Thank you very much!
