Subject: Importing images
Posted by Santora V on Thu, 20 Feb 2025 05:53:04 GMT

I'm probably not the first to ask, but is there a simple way to import images from an Excel sheet or paste a column of images in an existing DW table?

Thx,
VS

Subject: Re: Importing images
Posted by thomas on Thu, 20 Feb 2025 10:01:35 GMT

No, there is no easy way from an Excel sheet. However, if you have these images as jpeg or png files in a directory and if a DataWarrior file has a column containing their file names, then you could use a text editor to add a column property to the dwar file that tells DataWarrior to display these images as row specific detail information. When saving such a dwar file again from DataWarrior, it will ask you whether to embed the referenced images into the dwar file when saving. If this is an option for you, let me know and I will explain the procedure...